BUT THOUGH UNCONSCIOUS, CAPTAIN BRITAIN STILL LIVES! AND SO...

WELL, WELL...IT SEEMS WE'VE CAPTURED MORE THAN A MERE MORTAL!

ACCORDING TO "THE TIMES" HE'S SOME SORT OF HERO, ENDOWED WITH SUPER-STRENGTH!

PRESENTS A REPORT ON

NEW HERO DEFEATS RED SKULL!

HOW PERFECTLY SUITED TO MY PURPOSE!

WHAT BETTER WAY TO LAUNCH MY WAR AGAINST MODERN SOCIETY...

...THAN TO BATTLE A CHAMPION OF PRESENT-DAY BRITAIN...

...AND DESTROY HIM IN FULL VIEW OF THE PEOPLE HE SERVES!

BUT FIRST I MUST IMPLANT THE HOMING DEVICE I GOT FROM YOUNG BRADDOCK--

--BENEATH THE SKIN OF OUR UNEXPECTED SUPER-HERO!

NOW, MY PET, YOU WILL BE ELECTRONICALLY HOMED IN ON OUR Foe AT ALL TIMES...

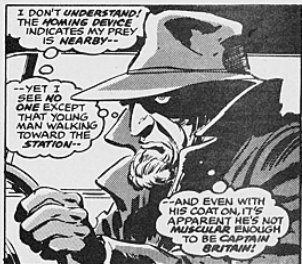

...WHILE I REMAIN WITHIN CLOSE RANGE SIMPLY BY MONITORING THE DEVICE'S BEEPS ON YOUR CONTROL MECHANISM!

COME! WE MUST BE GONE WHEN OUR ENEMY AWAKENS --SO HE'LL THINK WE'VE ABANDONED HIM!

THEN, BELIEVING HIMSELF FREE, HE'LL RETURN TO THE CITY--TOTALLY UNAWARE THAT HE IS STILL THE HUNTED--

--AND THE DOOMED!

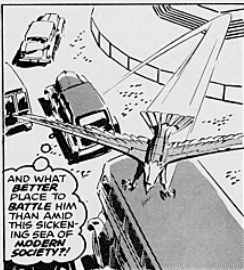

SOMETIME LATER, BRIAN BRADDOCK RIDES A BUS THROUGH THE HEART OF PICCADILLY CIRCUS...LITTLE SUSPECTING THAT CATASTROPHE LIES NO MORE THAN A FEW METRES AHEAD...

CAN'T YOU MAKE THAT IRON BIRD STOP BEEPING? IT'S DRIVING ME NUTS!

CALM YOURSELF, MY DEAR FELLOW! I'VE REACHED MY DESTINATION! YOU MAY STOP HERE!

ACCORDING TO THE HOMING DEVICE, CAPTAIN BRITAIN IS ON THE BUS BEHIND ME!

AND WHAT BETTER PLACE TO BATTLE HIM THAN AMID THIS SICKENING SEA OF MODERN SOCIETY?!

Tell it to The CAPTAIN!

REMEMBER THE M.I.D?

Dear Marvel,

Now that Captain Britain has established himself, a few comments.

The first stories were slightly slow moving and dull, but the same can be said for most super-hero origins. With the Hurrican stories the series began to pick up, and C.B.'s team-up with Captain America is great.

Speaking of team-ups with other super-heroes, I know that C.B. is due for guest-spots in Marvel Team-up and Marvel Two-in-One, but wouldn't his own strip be a good place to introduce new British heroes?

The strip itself seems far too short. Couldn't Captain Britain be turned into a landscape mag? Then C.B. could have twice as much story. That way you could delve more into Brian Braddock's private life.

Now a word from our sponsor: If you have any questions about Marvel comics send them to: The Marvel Information Bureau, 10 Meadow Road, Sutton, Surrey. I will do my best to answer them.

Finally a warning, Beware of Dr.

Z!

John Porter, RFO,KOF,QNS,FFF.

John -- if only you could have given us that warning about Dr. Z a little earlier! If we'd been prepared, we should have been more careful. But now it's all too late, far too late.....

ALL THE WAY FROM THE U.S.A.

Dear Marvel,

I finally got to read Captain Britain --bought the first thirteen issues today.

I really enjoyed these first issues. The storyline is good, as is the artwork. I do wish, though, that there were more C.B. pages in each issue. I'm also very anxious for C.B. to make his official debut in America, either in his own mag or as a back-up feature in one of the present mags.

Keep up the good work. Eagerly awaiting future issues.

Michael Parenteau,
30 w70 St.

New York City 10023
U.S.A.

Unless we've lost count somewhere along the line, to you, Mike, goes the honour of being the first U.S. fan to appear on the C.B. mail-page. We can appreciate that to American eyes the C.B. pages quota would appear to be somewhat on the short side. But remember, that quota has to be filled on a WEEKLY basis, not monthly.

DON'T RAP CAPI

Dear Marvel,

We all asked for Captain Britain, so you gave us him. But now, judging from some of the letters, all you Marvelites can do is complain. No glossy cover, scrap the fun-page, 1p more, free gifts are too childish, poor art etc., etc. I know it's constructive criticism, but I've had enough.

Paul Ansell,
56, Brentwood Rd.,
Tottenham, London.

Well, WE didn't say it -- Paul Ansell did. Does he have a point?

GARY FRIEDRICH, OK

Dear Gary, Herb et al,

"Two Died with Honour" was a remarkably good story. Gary Friedrich has always been a talented writer, since his works on both Ghost Rider and Son of Satan, but Captain Britain No. 19 was the clincher. I am certain my favourite writers, Gerber, Claremont and the now-gone Englehart, could not have written such a moving story.

Fury's remorse, his anger at Commander Hunter, Courtney's grief and finally Fury's hopes when he saw the L.M.D.'s were highlights this reader will remember always.

What started off to be an average team-up has developed into a most complex story. Herb Trimpe and Fred Kida turned out an outstanding piece of work. And to think that, in a previous letter, I criticised this team. That splash page was magnificent.

Until you merge C.B. with another of your British mags, I shall continue to buy.

Peter Gallagher,
22 Gibson Rd.,
Renfrew,
Scotland.

We were happy enough to publish your previous criticism, Pete. But we'd be less than honest if we didn't admit that we're even happier to publish your present high praise. Y'see we're human!
